

On March 23, 2013 the “Hayartun” Cultural Center of the Diocese of the Armenian Apostolic Orthodox Church in Georgia hosted an event in Calouste Gulbenkian Hall, dedicated to the preservation of the native language. The students of the Saint Prophet Eghia Sunday School (teacher Roza Zograbyan), who just a few months ago had started to learn the Armenian language and alphabet created by Mesrop Mashtot, took part in literary and musical performance.
