

A group of people, including several men in black clerical robes and hats, are seated in a room with light-colored walls and a window. The men are wearing black robes and some have black hats. They are seated in rows, facing towards the right side of the frame. The room has light-colored walls and a window in the background. There is a small framed picture on the wall to the left. The floor is light-colored. The overall atmosphere is formal and solemn.
